License Plates Deadline For '54 Set For March 31

Tax-payers are coming to the conclusion that March is a good name for this month. Each day they are reminded of something else they must "march right down" and do. Now, with income tax just barely a thing of the past, it's time to dress up the family car, truck or other vehicle with a shiny new license plate.

State officials evidently think that approximately 7,000 of the black plates with yellow numbers will be sold. Le Roy Massengale, Chief Clerk in the County Tax Assessors office reported that the numbers here start with NF 900 and go through 7,999.

The last day you can ride in your car, legally, displaying a 1953 license is March 31. All that is needed for the purchase of the 1954 plates is a certificate of title and last years registration receipt or transfer.

Your car and your sac-ro-iliac will benefit from your investment.

The county roads will be allocated the first $50,000 collected through the sale of 1954 license plates and the remainder will be equally divided between the county and state road commissions.

Last year $104,723.24 was grossed and it is expected that the figure will be even higher this year.

Mr. Massengale stated that the employees of the Tax Assessors office will appreciate the promptness of Cameron citizens in purchasing their plates instead of waiting until the last possible moment.

Sub-stations located through the county are: Gaither Motors in Rockdale; Jones - Clements in Thordale; Son - Varner in Gause; Otto Kelm in Sharp; E. Hensel in Burlington and Ellison Store in Bellville.

Two matters to be presented before the jury for investigation will be a possible indictment for saddle theft and one for purgery.

The group of men, selected by the Jury Commission last week, are J. L. Calloway, Jr., Cameron; Andrew Esslinger, Cameron; W. L. Ditto, Gause; Gus Back-

AN EDITORIAL

Some phrases become trite and tarnished after constant usage, other achieve luster and beauty after being handed down from generation to generation. One of the later is American made phrase "Vote for the man of your choice, but VOTE."

City elections are imminent. The officials of our city have a definite duty to the people, to govern them wisely and represent them well. The people of this city also have a duty and responsibility, to vote the right men into office.

At times we, as a people, become so involved with our business, our families and friends, that we forget to look around us and see what we are accomplishing as a community.

Are our taxes too high or too little? Do we receive full benefit for our investment in our city? Do the city executives run our city as well as they do their business?

There are six offices to be filled in this coming election on April 6. Seven men have filed for office. Therefore, when you go to the polls vote for the man of your choice for councilman. They are the senate, the congress and the house of representatives rolled up in one.

During this week THE CAMERON HERALD will record the histories, platforms and accomplishments of each of the three candidates running for the office of alderman, to assist you in your final decision at the ballot box.

Soil Conservation Service Meeting Held At Buckholts

Sixteen were present at a Soil Conservation Services meeting held Monday, March 8 at Buckholts. The meeting was under the direction of C. Tittsworth, vocational agricultural teacher at Buckholts. The purpose of the meeting was for those present to learn more about the Soil Conservation Services and its activities and to learn further its potentialities concerning the problems of this District.

"What is a Soil Conservation District", was the first question asked the panel by Carl Young of Temple, head of S.C.S. Technicians. Panel members were Ed Pagel, Edwin Fischer, Ed Senkel, Joe Marek and Adolph Michalka.

The panel's answer was, "A Soil Conservation District is a legal subdivision of the State of Texas". There are 166 Soil Conservation Districts in the State of Texas.

This District known as Central Texas Soil Conservation District Consists of parts of Bell, Falls and Milam Counties and its boundaries, Brazos and Little River. The District consists of 6,600 farmers covering 900,000 acres of farm land.

The Central Texas Soil Conservation District is designed to follow the Brazos and Little River water sheds. Nine technical personnel assigned to the Central Texas Soil Conservation District board of supervisors.

Edwin Fischer, supervisor of Zone III, our local supervisor, was elected by the land owners, by parliamentary procedure, to serve the term of five years. Each year one of the 5 men on the board of supervisors is elected, thus leaving 4 experienced men on the board at all times.

The second question asked the panel was, "How Does the District Operate". The District has paid Federal Government technicians, the supervisor paid per meeting, plus travel, 20 meetings a year for each supervisor is paid out of state funds. Equipment is purchased by money allocated by the State of Texas.

The rental fees of equipment is sent to the Soil Conservation District to replace the equipment where in need of replacing.

The main feature emphasized with panel I was the fact that the equipment allocated to farmers of this community belongs to the farmers and community. The shedders, drills and fertilizer distributors does not belong to the government.

Soil samples were exhibited for comparison. One soil sample was taken from a field that had no conservation practices in force and this field produced approximately 116 pounds of cotton lint per acre, while the adjoining field, some 50 to 100 feet apart, yielded approximately 726 pounds of cotton lint per acre during the same year, 1953.

Discussion was led by panel members Raymond Wall, J. Jungmann, Adolph Michalka, and Ed Senkel in answering the questions about Soil Conservation District soil improvement, fertilizing methods, crop rotation and concluded that terracing is one of the minor steps in Soil Conservation as terracing is a soil erosion control, but the conservation of the soil consists of legumes, fertilization, crop rotation, and stirring the soil, rather than turning it.

A parting thought was presented by Mr. Young when he said, "Our grandfathers used a pair of mules, single row farming equipment and produced approximately one half bale to the acre, but today we have modern machinery, insecticides, colleges of information, fertilizers, new planting seed varieties, and the same soil, but we are producing that same one half bale to the acre our grandfathers produced. Are we progressing, or at a standstill?"

This program was one of the activities planned for the farmers by the Central Texas Soil Conservation District board of Supervisors for 1954, along with many other activities to be presented in the near future.

Milam Chapter Of Red Cross Gets Thanks From Hood

The Milam County Chapter of the American Red Cross received a thank you note from Miss Sara E. Price, assistant field director of the American Red Cross at the US Army Hospital at Ft. Hood, and Miss Helen Strehlis, head recreation worker at the hospital, for its generous contribution of cookies for the patients at the hospital.

Miss Price said, "The cookies were delicious and were used for several ward parties and special parties in the recreation hall. Please do congratulate the ladies in their cooking ability." She continued to say that the patients are very appreciative of the time and effort that has gone into providing them with this treat.

It was added too by Miss Price and Miss Strehlis, that books and comics are always appreciated as they never seem to be able to keep a sufficient supply on hand. This type of light reading is about all that some of the sicker patients can manage.

The members of the Milam Chapter are to be congratulated again for so faithfully continuing to meet the needs of the patients at Fort Hood.

Measurement Of Cotton-Acreage Can Be Obtained

Milam County cotton growers can arrange for official measurement of their 1954 farm cotton acreage allotments prior to planting time, the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced this week.

To get the premeasurement service, which is being provided on a cost basis, a cotton farmer must file a written request with the county ASC office prior to April 30, says Paul C. Graves, Committee chairman. The rate to be charged for the service in Milam County has been established at $5.00 per farm plus $2.00 for each plot over one, and payment based on this rate must be made at the time the request for measurement is filed.

"The premeasurement is purely optional," says Graves, "and is offered as a service to growers who prefer to have an official measurement to use as a planting guide."

The chairman explains that all cotton acreage in the county will be measured as soon as possible after the cotton "Comes up" to determine compliance with the acreage allotment - marketing quota program. When compliance is checked, the farm will be considered to be within the farm acreage allotment if the crop is planted within the premeasured area.

Alcoa To Dedicate New Rockdale Plant April 24-25

The Aluminum Company of America will hold open house and dedication of its newest smelting operations, the Rockdale Works, on April 24 and 25.

The two-day celebration will begin with Family Day for the 1,000 employees and their guests on Saturday April 24, when Governor Allan Shivers and Alcoa President L. W. Wilson dedicate the new plant.

On Sunday, the following day, the Rockdale Works will be open for inspection by the general public. In making the announcement, Rockdale Works Manager J. D. Harper said, "We have been looking forward for more than two years to the time when we could invite our friends to visit the Rockdale Works to see how aluminum is produced."

"Construction still is not complete; however, all the aluminum producing facilities will be in operation, and we are planning the tour so that our guests will see all processes used in smelting aluminum."

Alcoa's installation at Rockdale includes a smelting plant with four potlines in which aluminum is produced from refined aluminum ore (alumina); and a plant for the manufacture of carbon electrodes required in the electrolytic aluminum producing process. The Sandow Power Plant which is operated by Industrial Generating Company also is a part of the Rockdale Works.

During their visit to the smelting plant, guests will follow the powdery white aluminum ore (alumina) through each step in the operations until it emerges from the pots as molten aluminum and is poured into pig molds.

Guides stationed at points of interest along a well-marked route will explain operations to visitors as they examine the various processes. At the end of the tour, refreshments and souvenirs will be ready for visitors.

Ground was broken at the plant site about 11 miles southwest of Rockdale in central Texas on October 15, 1951. Less than thirteen months later the first aluminum was poured. Texas Power and Light Company will supply the vast quantities of electricity for smelting aluminum until the Sandow Power Plant is in continuous operation.

Lignite, a sub-bituminous coal, will be used as fuel in the steam generating plant. Before burning, the lignite will be dried by a new experimental method worked out by the U. S. Bureau of Mines under the direction of V. C. Parry and under the sponsorship of Texas Power and Light company.

Aluminum is produced at the Rockdale Works fundamentally by the same process discovered in 1886 by Charles Martin Hall, a 22-year-old Oberlin College graduate.

Alumina (aluminum oxide), from which aluminum is made, is refined from an ore called bauxite. This ore used at the Rockdale Works is shipped by rail from Bauxite, Arkansas, and Mobile, Alabama. For each pound of aluminum produced at the Rockdale Works ten kilowatts of electricity, two pounds of alumina, and two-thirds of a pound of carbon electrodes are used.

The Convention was climaxed with a banquet in the ball room Wednesday night. Countess Maria Plusky was the main speaker. Mr. and Mrs. McCullin attended the three day convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Supak of Caldwell are the proud parents of a daughter born at 5:27 p.m. Sunday, March 7 at St. Edward Hospital. The newly arrival was named Linda Kay and tipped the scales at six pounds and fourteen ounces.

The friends of Mrs. R. L. Batte, Sr. will be glad to know she is better and now able to be in a wheel chair some time each day.

"OVER 45 YEARS OF CONTINUOUS QUALITY"

Several Of Milam County's 1800 Cotton Farmers Start Planting

Although the weather has been adjudged "a little dry" several of Milam County's 1,800 cotton farmers started planting their crops last week.

Most of the farmers, however, according to local Production Marketing Association officials, will wait until the later part of the month or the first of April to plant.

Government allocation of land, which was voted in by 90 per cent of the farmers in the cotton belt, has affected local cotton acreage by about 20 per cent.

Last year, Paul Dillon, Marketing Quota Clerk of Cameron's P.M.A. office, reported there were 81,000 acres farmed while this year approximately 66,000 acres have been allotted to the county.

Cotton buyers in this area seem to think, however, that last year's yield of 34,000 bales will remain about the same.

Approximately one-fourth of this amount will go through the local gins with the rest distributed to the gins in surrounding towns.

National rate scale for middling cotton has been set at 31.25 cents per pound, with prices varying in different localities.

Premium again this year will be based on over-all yield per acre and good farming practices rather than for the first bale to reach the market.

Some of the farmers allotted land for cotton have since decided they do not wish to farm the crop and are releasing their acreage, which will be re-distributed on April 16 to farmers applying for extra land at the P.M.A. office.

It was brought out by Dillon that this is the first time since 1949 that there has been a real surplus, which reached the fifteen million bale mark last year, and a need for allocation of land. Farmers had a choice of unrestricted acreage or 90 per cent parity and in their vote chose the latter.

P.M.A. office officials stated that the cotton grown in this area is comparatively a short staple plant of from seven eighths to an inch long and production has been improved over previous years by early season poisoning, legumes, ample fertilization and addition to phosphate to the soil.

Many of the farmers will practice the "hill drop" planting method, whereby several seeds are dropped together in hills from six to eight inches apart. Others will use the regular corn planter on their tractors.

The cotton planted now will be rolled after planting so that the soil will retain the necessary moisture and will be ready to pick by the later part of July.

A. E. Sanders is P.M.A. office manager and his co-workers are Mr. Dillon, George Fisher, head of the Performance division, Robert Glenn, in charge of A.C.P. Practices and Gib Terry, clerk.

They contended that the labor situation in this area will be better than in the past, with many Mexican laborers giving farmers a turn-key job, from farm to gin.

Cameron Girl To Take Part In Easter Pageant At M-HB

With casting virtually complete

Edith Baldrige

ed for the annual Easter Pageant to be presented by Mary Hardin-Baylor college on April 18, Mrs. Elmer Glazener of Temple, who will direct the performance, released today the names of several principals in the production.

Mrs. Glazener, the former Elizabeth Timmons, who taught in the college speech department during the first semester, was student director the pageant in 1952 and 1953.

Miss Louise Provence of Arlington, as student director and assistant to Mrs. Glazener, has a key position in the production. A member of the junior class and a speech major, she has been active in forensics and campus dramatics.

Miss Melite Bain, instructor in speech, will be the narrator. Christ will be portrayed by Miss Edith Baldrige of Cameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Baldrige, 1402 North Houston. Miss Nancy Robertson of Bakersfield, Calif. has the role of Mary, the mother of Jesus.

Students who have the roles of Christ and Mary are selected by a faculty - student committee primarily on the basis of character and Christian influence on the campus.

A new member of the speech faculty this year, Miss Bain has already won popularity as a reader and interpreter of literature.

Miss Baldrige, a senior, is president of the Baptist Student Union and a member of the Life Service Band and of the Young Woman's Auxiliary. In last year's pageant she was one of the three Mary's.

Miss Roberson, also a senior, is devotional vice president of the Baptist Student Union. She was the disciple John in the 1953 production.

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER BRINGS CHEER TO DOWNCAST NEIGHBOR BY HELPING INCREASE HIS RAINFALL

Editor's note: Frankly we don't know what to make of this letter this week from the Little River Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Little River, but every man to his own way of thinking.

Dear editor:

A man the other day accused me of being one-sided, said I seemed to spend all my time seeing that I was comfortable and not worryin' about anybody else's comfort, said it looked like just so my cows made it through the winter, with may-be a little help from a neighbors pasture through the courtesy of a sorry fence. I didn't have any concern for the human race.

I wish to deny this, while it has always been my contention that a man's biggest job is to get himself and his own through the winter before he started worryin' about somebody else, in fact, if everybody was able to follow that principle there wouldn't be anybody left needin' help. I still would like it known that I do spend considerable thought and time on other people, frequently neglectin' my own plowin' to worry about national problems, although I'll admit I have never been able to put the national debt ahead of a personal debt when it comes to worryin'.

But what I started out to do was to tell you about a little deed I did the other night, just to make my neighbor happy.

This neighbor has been worryin' pretty deeply about the weather, about the lack of rain all over the country and especially on his land. He's one of these fellows they never have made any weather for yet that really suited him, but here lately he's been worryin' more than ever. He'll get a little rain and figure the 5-year-drouth has been broken, but then let it stay dry a month and he's back worryin' worse than ever.

Well, here lately it's gotten worse, even affectin' his health. "If we could just get one inch of rain right now, I'd be satisfied," he told me the other day, shakin' his head. "We've just got to have some rain."

Well, the other night we had a little rain out here, not much, but the clouds were pretty dark lookin' along about sundown and the prospects for moisture looked pretty good.

Along about an hour after it began to pepper down pretty good, and I got to thinkin' about that neighbor. I knew he was gonna be out the first thing in the mornin' lookin' at his rain gauge, and if it showed only about a quarter of an inch he was gonna be as disappointed and downcast as a candidate who lost by two votes.

So in the spirit of neighborliness and goodwill I put on my rain coat, got a fruit jar full of water out of my well, and eased down to his place and poured enough in his rain gauge to show a good inch, then came on back home.

We got enough rain that night to wet the ground out here, but we didn't get anywhere close to an inch, but you have never seen a happier man than him when he turned a flashlight on his rain gauge at 6 o'clock the next morning and saw where the water level was. His appetite picked up, the mornin' took on a rosier glow, and he went to town later in the day and bought a television set just on the strength of it.

It's these little inexpensive, thoughtful things a man does that brings happiness to others.

Steve Tips the Balance

Was just leaving home this morning when the Missus reminded me to stop at Steve and Al's Meat Market for a pound of hamburger. "Be sure to get it from Steve," she said.

"Why?" I wondered. So when I got to the market I asked Steve if he knew. "I'll tell you, Joe," he said. "Al and I sell the same meat, and a pound is a pound. Maybe it's just that we go at it differently.

"Al loads the scales and takes away 'til he has a pound. But I put too little on and start adding.

Clements Purchases Mack's Oil Company Appliance Agency

A. W. McCullin has announced that the Mack's Oil Company Division of Heating Appliances has been sold to George Clements, who formerly was co-operator and co-owner of the 77-Drive-In-Theatre here.

McCullin has handled the appliance business, which includes Hot-Point line of electrical appliances, refrigerators, Hot Point ranges, automatic washers and dryers and the Coleman and Payne Line of heating since 1941.

This year, for the second time Mack's Oil Company division of heating appliances, was awarded a trip to the Coleman factory in Wichita, Kansas. The award came to the firm for outstanding service. McCullin has attended one school, while just recently, William Kubers returned from the Coleman factory where he received his degree in heating, engineering and service.

In taking over the business Clements will continue to handle the same line that Mack's did. The new appliance store will be located in the Lodge Building, formerly where Moseley Electric Company was located on Houston Street.

The building space is presently being completely remodeled and it is expected to be completed shortly.

A grand opening is planned in the near future.

Coach Hawkins said Leon Beale, a letterman, is trying out again this year in the Center field position, and W. K. Leonard, will be out to capture the short stop position for this season.

Although the team of 1953 didn't capture the district title, they showed to be an outstanding ball club.

The next exhibition game on tap, following the Hearne clash, is on Thursday, March 25, when Hearne and Yoemen meet again. Coach Hawkins said admission to all of the ballgames here is free, and urged as many fans as possible to come out and support the team. The games, however, will all be played in the afternoon beginning at 3:45.

Cameron will play baseball in District 18-A which is made up of Belton, Rosebud, Georgetown, Cameron, Taylor and Killeen.

Churches To Cooperate In Staging Radio-TV And Film Productions

For the first time major church bodies working together through the Broadcasting and Film Commission of the National Council of Churches plan to spend more than $1,000,000 in a single year on religious broadcasts, telecasts and film production. The Commission's 1954 budget, as recently adopted, calls for expenditure of $1,056,085, a heavy portion of which is to be allocated to television.

Beef producers can put extra weight and finish on their calves—faster and more efficiently—by creep feeding.
